The Woods

by Emil Kotik

The woods at the end of the RTSC parking lot has a wonderful trail running through it. Many wildflowers decorate the trail on both sides.

Those who have walked it almost have the feeling of being in a wild forest, but with the constant reminder from the expressway traffic that we're in the city.

If you haven't walked through those woods you're missing a pleasant experience. Kenneth Jones, GM of Facilities, has seen to it that the trail is kept mowed, making it convenient to walk. Ken has been doing a great job since taking that position, and maintenance has been much better.

There are three bird houses that can be seen from the trail. See if you can spot them. Additionally, there are two bluebird houses close to the entrance road. You may have seen them as you go to and from home.

Strolling slowly through the trail and observing the wildlife, there's no telling what you may see.
